Entertainments

MISS NORFLEET HONORED.

BY THE MISSES FLEMING.
The Misses Kathleen and Jerry Allie Fleming were charming young hostesses at a delightful affair on Monday afternoon, when they entertained in their home on Overton Park avenue. The affair was in special compliment to an attractive visiting girl, Miss Nan Norfleet, of Winston-Salem, N. C., who has been receiving much attention as the guest of Mrs. Marshall White, and who is now spending a few days as the guest of the Misses Fleming.

The rooms thrown open for the occasion were decorated with palms, ferns and garden flowers, artistically arranged. The hostesses were daintily gowned for the afternoon in frocks of French organdie and tulle, and the honoree was also lovely in yellow French organdie. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by their mother, Mrs. M. A. Fleming, who was also charmingly gowned.

Family Gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rolfe, of New York, who are spending the months of July and August in Memphis, their former home, entertained on Sunday with a family gathering in celebration of the sixth birthday anniversary of their little daughter, Frances Hildegarde.

A feature of the afternoon was the cutting of the birthday cake, with its pink tapers, with which the guests enjoyed ice cream which carried out the pink and white color scheme of the decorations. Later in the evening a watermelon party was enjoyed.

OUR ANNUAL MIDSUMMER

SALE OF FURS

And August Sale Prices Are Considerably Lower Than Those Effective After August

Here Are a Few Reasons Why It Will Be Wise To Buy Early

There will be a scarcity later in the season of WELL MADE Furs. (Please note, we state "well made." This condition is certain to come about, due to the present fur strike in New York, in which every furrier, designer and cutter is out. Not a fur garment has been made in New York City for two months past, and the termination of the strike is very indefinite—which means an increased shortage of furs with attendant high prices. When this strike is finally settled work will be rushed, and as you know, things hurriedly done are unsatisfactorily done. Another important reason why you should purchase now is that all these garments have been made from the choicest pelts; those manufactured later will be made from smaller skins.
